DAVID LLOYD GEORGE DESTINED TO BE GREAT BRITAIN'S PREMIER

LONDON, September 2.—"The little Welsh attorney," David Lloyd-George, is today the strongest man in Great Britain. That he will succeed Mr. Asquith as the titular leader of the Liberal party (he already is in fact the head of the party) seems to be as certain as anything save death and taxes.

That it was due to the personality of the chancellor of the exchequer, to the confidence of the great mass of workmen in his absolute fairness and honesty that the great strike which might have ended in actual civil war was averted there can be no doubt. The labor leaders, in fact, made it plain that they would enter into no parley unless it was under the direction of Mr. Lloyd-George.

This man, who is regarded by many as the greatest statesman of modern times, is a curious admixture of the idealist and practical man of affairs, such as can be rarely found outside the Celtic race. It is the rare combination which can dream great dreams and then can go to work carefully and methodically to make them come true.

Witness the famous budget which for the first time in the history of a great nation has begun to put into practice the theory of that other great dreamer, the Welsh-American, Henry George, that the "unearned increase" of land belongs to the community which creates it; the insurance bill now before Parliament, which will do much to lighten the burdens of the very poor; the old age pension bill, which has taken from the poor much of the terror of nonproductive old age, and similar measures.

Love of Humanity.

Mr. Lloyd-George is an intense lover of humanity and a devout Christian. He can and does on occasion preach a powerful sermon. His sympathies are all with that class of the community with whom life is a constant struggle for existence, and, naturally, for it is from that class that he springs.

The future ruler of the British Empire—no one doubts that he will be prime minister if he lives—owes his success to his own tremendous ability. Pull or influence has not helped him a particle. He has had neither. With it all he is a modest, genial gentleman with a personal charm which makes friends with all with whom he comes in contact. There is no man in the cabinet for whom King George has a higher personal regard than this man who as a boy assisted his shoemaker uncle and who was as poor as poverty itself.

Another man who has figured in the settlement of the great strike is Mr. G. R. Asquith, whose great service in the settlement of labor disputes have earned for him the name of the "Industrial Peacemaker." Among the triumphs of Mr. Asquith's career as arbitrator, which has covered nearly 100 disputes, must be counted the settlement of the cotton dispute in the autumn of last year, of the strike in Belfast, when the troops were compelled to fire on the crowds, and of the great dispute between the railway companies and their employees, which nearly led to a general strike. A particularly difficult task was the settlement of the music hall strike, and when the bootmakers of the Rounds made their historic march upon the war office it was Mr. Asquith who was selected by the army council to deal with them. As a result of his decision he was made permanent arbitrator of the district boot trade.

Home Rule Topic.

Home rule will monopolize public attention during the eight weeks of the approaching parliamentary recess to the exclusion of all other domestic questions save, possibly, the demands of labor.

In view of the winter campaign on the Irish issue, John Redmond and his lieutenants count heavily upon the September visit to Ireland of the representative party arranged for by the Eighty Club to study the problem on the spot.

After gaining first hand information and opinions by a careful investigation of all sections of the island the Eighty Club will undertake a propaganda in Great Britain. Three weeks at the shortest will be devoted to the inquiry, which will be conducted without respect to party, religion or social distinction. Particular care will be taken to learn the facts as to Conemara, Kerry and other counties, where congestion and poverty are most troublesome. But Dublin, Cork, Belfast, Galway, Waterford and Limerick will be "gone over with a fine tooth comb."

Harold Spender, Hamar Greenwood, Sir Godfrey Baring and other aggressive Liberals of the club are behind the undertaking. Originally the delegation was to be limited to thirty, but so many applications to go were filed that this number has been doubled.

What the club wishes to ascertain is the measure of truth in William O'Brien's contention that Ireland is likely to be plunged into half a generation of uncertainty and anxiety by such a home rule measure as John Redmond "is wringing from the necessities of the English parties."

Also what foundation there is for Sir Edward Carson's prediction that "the Unionists of Ireland are not going to accept home rule from this Parliament and force will be resisted by force."

Morning Cable Report

SYRACUSE, Sept. 17.—At the state fair the racing machine of Lee Oldfield, while traveling at a terrific speed, became unmanageable and crashed through a fence and into a crowd of spectators, killing nine persons and wounding fourteen others, some of whom may die.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 17.—One of the most remarkable accidents on record took place here yesterday during the water carnival, when the hydro-plane, Dixie IV, flying from the water to the shore without its rudder, dashed into a crowd of spectators and fractured the skull of a boy and cut off the leg of a man.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 17.—No clew has as yet been found to the identity of the five men who robbed the New Westminster branch of the Bank of Montreal Thursday night, when they escaped with $315,000.

MONTEREY, Mex., Sept. 17.—Three people were killed and eighteen wounded in independence day riots here.

KIEF, Sept. 17.—Dimitri Bogrof has confessed that he shot Premier Stolypin and is indifferent to his fate. Stolypin is worse.

OTTAWA, Canada, Sept. 18.—Both Liberal and Conservative leaders are predicting victory and both sides assert confidence in the result of the general election, which will be held throughout the Dominion next Thursday, September 21.

The Liberals in a statement issued yesterday announced that they will receive a majority of at least sixty-three seats in Parliament, while the opposition claims that it will secure a majority of thirty-nine. The indications are at this time that the cause of reciprocity will win.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Former United States Senator Thomas Carter of Montana died in this city yesterday from infraction of the lungs.

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 18.—This city is seething with discontent over the high cost of living. Mobs formed in the streets yesterday to loot the cafes of food, and were charged by dragoons and infantry and dispersed.

Assembling later the crowds demolished street lamps and wrecked the electric cars, forming barricades across the streets and defying the troops.

The infantry were ordered to take the barricades and fired twice on the mob. Six persons were killed and 290 severely and many others slightly wounded.

Dispersed for the second time in the streets the mob stormed the Rathaus Park and ravaged the place. It also took possession of a schoolhouse and burned the furniture first and the house afterward.

The trouble started early in the day when a mass meeting was held in which 50,000 people took part to protest against the high cost of food. Speakers inflamed the crowd, asserting that food was stored in the cafes. Several thousand of the men and women who attended the meeting started for the cafes to get this food, and were met by the police, who attempted to protect property, but were swept away. It was then that the troops were called out.

Threats were freely made last evening that the mob would burn other buildings today besides schoolhouses.

A strong force of infantry and cavalry has been ordered into the city and in case of further efforts upon the part of the mob to destroy property there will be bloodshed.

Judge Robinson allowed Nettie M. Joseph Fernandez, pending the decision of the court, $55 a month temporary alimony of her divorce suit, money and $100 counsel fees against
